this looks delicious, I don't eat baked potato chips, but if they were dusted in salt…maybe I could eat them! Need to try this recipe. Hi there! Thanks for the comment. I actually do eat those chips (especially the salted ones). My husband is allergic to dairy so I had to find alternatives so they were sweet potato chips and rice cakes. They were delicious. I'm excited to try these chips as well, thanks for the comment. I love looking at pictures of food while I am eating. I rarely look at the rest of the picture. I eat with my eyes. These were great! I am so glad I am following you. I like potatoes in any way shape or form, whether they are sliced, cubes, tater tots, etc. I never really make baked potatoes and these were tasty! I am excited to read through the rest of your blog! These were awesome! I was looking for a recipe to use up some leftover potatoes as I am making them from scratch. They were really easy and tasted great. Looking forward to trying more of your recipes, thanks! I've been following you for a while but never really have enough time to comment. I really enjoy reading your blog and it gets me a little intimidated to make something new, but everything you have on here I've made. I've been baking muffins for a couple of years now, except I use a cupcake/muffin pan, and usually a muffin top pan. They are truly great, and I'm just sure you've tried them out! I think these baked chips would also be great! I just found you! My brother just brought me some lovely looking french fries from a takeaway which I am trying to replicate, so I will be giving these a try very soon. They look great and should be a huge hit. Lots of great recipes here. I think these will work even better with a french fry dipping sauce, which I will happily try. Dear Elaine, I really enjoy your blog! I want to thank you for the likes you keep sending me about "Caramelized Pork Chops". I love your step by step photos and have already made the pork chops and served them with your rice

What's New in the Photoshop 2022 (Version 23.2)?

Q: How to Add a VBA auto indent to webpart I have a VBA Add-In, When adding the add-in to a page, I get the following error: The macro might not be declared. It may be inaccessible due to its protection level. How do I get a VBA add-in to auto indent like in other programming languages? Any help is appreciated. A: MS have specific documentations on the topic - here is part of it: When developing Visual Basic code, you can use any standard Visual Basic programming environment. You can use the Visual Basic editor without Visual Studio, the Visual Basic 6.0 IDE, or Visual Basic 2008 Express Edition. Although you can use all the features of Visual Basic, you need to pay particular attention to the security restrictions on Visual Basic for Applications (VBA). When developing VBA code, you must protect the macro that you create by using the default VBA protection settings, which you can modify through the Project Properties dialog box. And here is short test demonstrating how to use regexps to clean up trailing spaces (mine was perfectly legal ones): Sub AddIndent(MyControl As MSForms.WebPartContents) Dim s As String MyControl.ControlStyle.Indent = Not RegExCheck("(?
