Changed the way the colors are set in the print job, as well as several other minor improvements.Q: Why is the value of text box in the stored procedure selected from all rows? I have a table which has a text box. When I try to store the value of the text box in the stored procedure, why is it stored as the value from all rows in the table instead of each row's value? I am passing the following query in the stored procedure. INSERT INTO #Approval (AppID, ApproverID, ApprovedDate) VALUES(@AppID, @ApproverID, @ApprovedDate); Note: @AppID, @ApproverID, and @ApprovedDate are all passed in the stored procedure. A: Because you are passing in a parameter value for the row, all of the columns in the row will have the same value. You need to be specifying the column value yourself: INSERT INTO #Approval (AppID, ApproverID, ApprovedDate) VALUES (@AppID, @ApproverID, @ApprovedDate); Alternatively, you can specify each column with a column list: INSERT INTO #Approval (AppID, ApproverID, ApprovedDate) VALUES (@AppID, @ApproverID, @
