□□□□□□ "I plan to become the new hero of the Elden." It was a lovely morning, sun and the warm breeze filled with the aroma of flowers and grass. A dreamy quietness pervaded the golden yellow fields surrounding the farming village of Désolé, and birds were singing loudly. On the far horizon was the dark mass of the forest that was surrounding the village. The sun was rising higher and cast its beautiful rays on the village and in the surrounding fields. As the scene contrasted the village was a small one, and seemed in harmony with the nature that surrounded it. It consisted of a church, two inns, and a general store. Small thatched-roofed cottages were scattered about the field. Here and there, villagers were harvesting the fields as well as growing crops in the fields and the barn. The sound of the cart and horses traveling on the dirt road could be heard in the distance. In one of the inns, a woman and two men were drinking tea and playing cards at the table. The lady of the inn talked and laughed while the two men looked at the cards on the table. Eventually, the woman gathered the cards and placed them in a box, then she cleaned the table and laid out a new set. She then opened the window and sat down to watch the road. The time was 8:00 in the morning. That day, the sun rose at 7:00 in the morning, and the sky was already bright. In a few moments the sun would set and the gentle rays of the sun would light up the night. At seven o'clock, the light finally shone through the window and the atmosphere was filled with the sound of village life. The sun disappeared just as the bell of the village church rang, and the villagers went to their homes. After the sun disappeared, the sky turned red and every window of the village was lit up like a single fire. Every building became a golden gate to the underworld. The light in every building was shining so beautifully. The golden light glinted as the sparkling red flames on every window made the village suddenly look like a battlefield. In front of the inn, the woman was still talking to her friends when suddenly a huge figure appeared. This figure was about 100 meters tall and was getting closer and closer. Next to him was a horse that looked like it was ridden by an bff6bb2d33
