Richard Branson has announced his new Virgin Sports division will launch on July 1, with the aim of making personalised physical training a reality for athletes around the world. 'We've got to change the mindset of the athletes. They don't have the time to be sitting on a bench for four hours, so we have to provide them with a way to do that,' Branson told The Times. The launch will involve the creation of an app that users can sign up to receive real-time messages about their performance, taking into account their current fitness levels. To create the app, Virgin has partnered with the UK Sport and England Athletics. There will be 1,500 personalised messages, which will include exercise, diet and personal training advice.
