With more than 30 years of experience designing for high-end retailers and private clients, the Latin American company is expanding its offerings in the state through the launch of a retail store. A Magnolia ArtistWorks Gallery, or MABG, opened its doors to the public Monday at 64 Madison Ave. The boutique showcases Primaxima's creative output and shows off its extensive collection of products in a gallery space with seating for visitors. "The New York market is always an important one for us, and we're very excited to introduce Primaxima's collections to the market," says Inayaa Ali, Primaxima's U.S. representative. "We're very much looking forward to establishing a presence in New York City." The brand's line of small figurines, created exclusively by the company in Brazil, has been a hit with retailers and private clients nationwide. "The opportunities for small figurines are much broader than most people think," says Pierre Grimaldi, Primaxima's vice president of North America. "The market is much bigger than people think and we believe that people will fall in love with our figurines." Grimaldi, a Brazilian who also has residences in Los Angeles and New York, says that in a few years, MABG will become a second flagship location for the brand in New York. "We're going to be building a permanent showroom," he says. "We've created a space that will allow us to display new products and have a great experience for our customers." "Primaxima is one of the most trusted brand names in miniature figurines in the world, and we're thrilled to bring it to the Magnolia ArtistWorks Gallery," says Robin Rosenthal, Magnolia's president. "We
